George E. P. Husson, Jr.

Waltham English High School, Lynn, Massachusetts; B.S., State Teachers College, Salem, Massachusetts; M.E.D., University of Maine.

Mr. Husson, who has been a constant worker for the Waltham school system, has always striven for a high degree of achievement. He has moved from the role of teacher, to department chairman, then assistant to the superintendent of schools, and finally to his present position as principal of Waltham High School. Mr. Husson is well qualified for this position because of his strong background in administrative techniques. In shaping our school to an even higher level of academic prominence, he has not forgotten the aesthetic and humanitarian outlook.

Gerard J. Belliveau

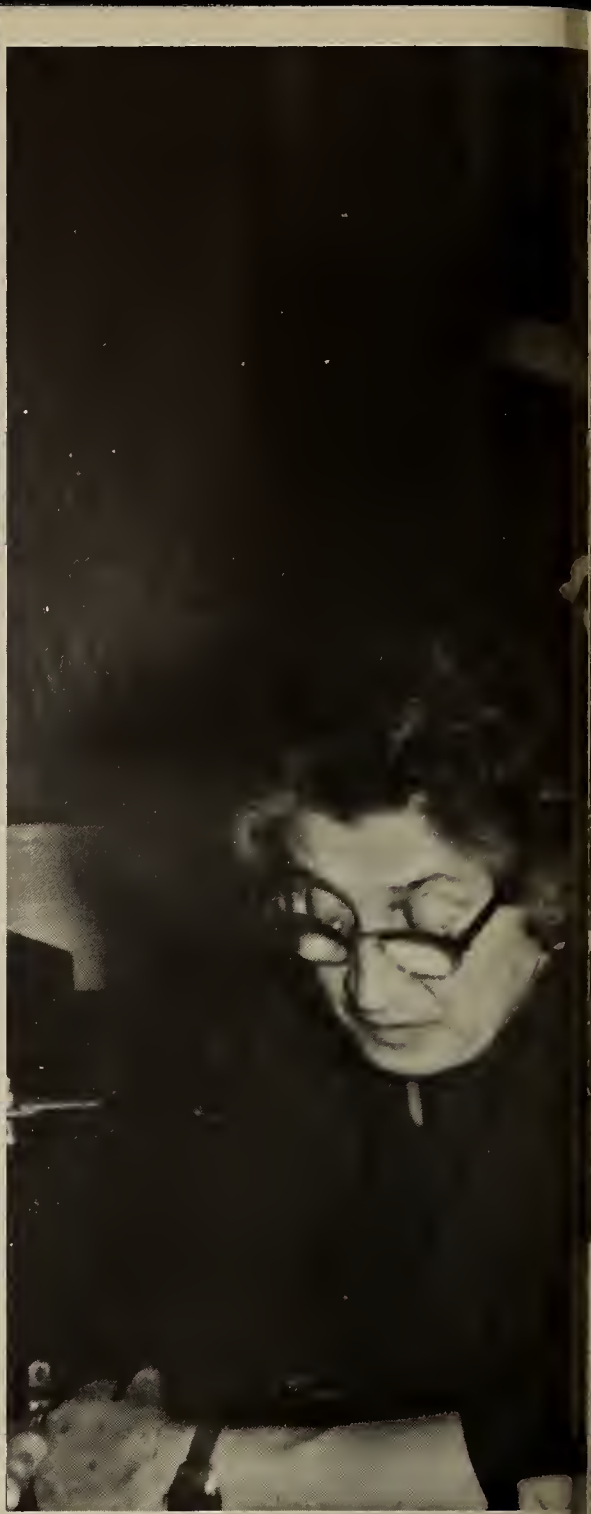

Assumption High School, Worcester, Massachusetts; A.B., Assumption College, Worcester, Massachusetts; M.A., Boston College.

Mr. Belliveau has been a friend of the senior class for the past three years. His talents as an administrator and educator make his position as housemaster to almost 650 students a vital one. He is a man well established as a linguist—not only in foreign languages, but in the language of youth; he interprets the changing words and attitudes of youth—our youth and our future.

Vocational School

The objective of the vocational education has always been, and shall continue to be, the preparation of boys—and girls in increasing numbers—for profitable employment upon graduation from high school. Through the development of occupational skills, under conditions approximating as realistically as possible those of the world of work, the student learns to relate in meaningful fashion the theoretical “why” of the classroom to the practical “how” of the shop or laboratory.

While trade and industry have an almost insatiable appetite for the potentially skilled craftsman and technician, they have need, too, for the well-motivated but lesser-skilled vocational graduate. Thus it is that we would be remiss in our dedication to the goals of vocational education if we did not make provision for both types of students.

Clerk-typist

June came to us from North Junior, bringing her football spirit to cheer on the Pep Squad for the Hawks. Her talents added to the success of the Senior Revue.

Activities: Pep Squad 2, 3; Senior Revue.

DONNA ANNUNCIATA
90 Albemarle Rd.
S 001

CI

Another vote for lunch studies and the 2:30 bell. It must be the little things that count. Looking into the future with the aid of the Hawk's magic feather, we see Donna as a legal secretary in a law firm whose client is the largest manufacturer of spaghetti and meatballs.

Activities: Pep Squad 2, 3, 4.

LYNNE ARICO
14 Ledge Road

CI

Lynne has perfected the idea of team spirit. Go to any game and you'll see this cheerleader jumping, shouting, screaming, and crying for joy when we win. The Hawks are deeply indebted to you for your loyalty.

Activities: Baseball 1, 2; N.H.S. 3, 4; Spanish Club 2, 3; JETS 3, 4.

LINDA ARSENAULT
333 Grove Street
S 001

Linda, the senior with the school spirit, can be quoted as saying "Are you serious? Of course we're going to beat Watertown. We're the best." This great school spirit has brought Linda to love half-days and vacations the most.

Activities: Business Staff; Pep Squad.

KAREN ARSENAULT
186 Robbins Street
Distributive Education

Karen likes Chinese food and her friends (not necessarily in that order). She enjoys retail merchandising with Mr. O'Neil and would like to become a hairdresser.

Activities: DECA 4.

THOMAS ARSENAULT
16 Wellington Street
S 001

Business

Tom is no longer satisfied with staying in W.H.S. and eating the "cafe pizzas". He plans to join the Navy and see the world. Maybe you could send back some good pizza recipes.

JOHN P. ARSENAULT

ELAINE BALLO
45 Woodchester Rd.

CI

Elaine spends most of her time helping Nurse Flynn in her office. Perhaps we'll see Elaine back at W.H.S. to assist Nurse Flynn as a colleague. Math was her favorite class with Mrs. Kudara as a teacher.

Activities: Senior Review.

DAVID BARNES
25 Greenwood Lane
S 001

Honors

Barnsey will be remembered for his outstanding performance as narrator of part II of All This and Broadway Too. He is always busy either arguing humanitarian issues as the Burmese delegate to a mock U.N. or just ruining all of Miss Christensen's agar plates.

JOHN BARRY
137 Russell St.

Humorous John can be seen at local swimming pools and bowling alleys throughout Waltham. After his favorite class with Mrs. Johnson, he'd enjoy a nice thick steak at lunch??

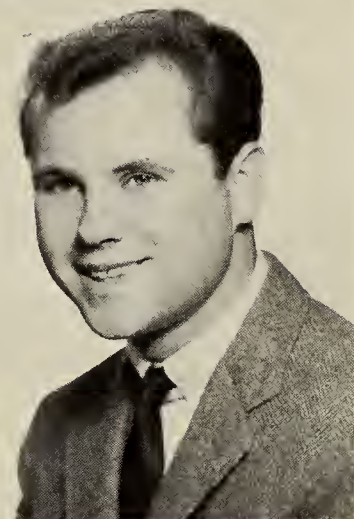

Activities: Football 2, 3.

ROBERT BEARISTO
1393 Trapelo Rd.

CII

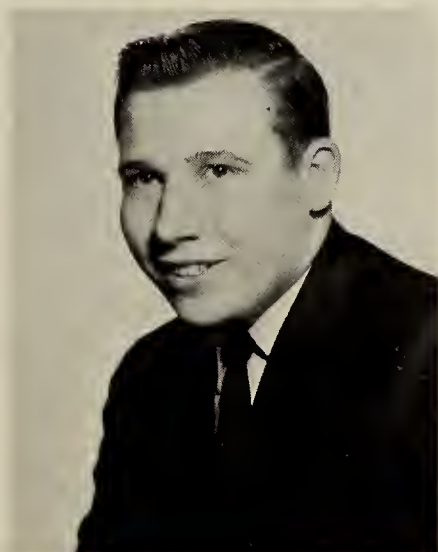

A frequent water skier, Bobby hopes to manage Stop & Shop in the future. Mr. O'Brien's math class kept Bob on his toes at W.H.S.

MICHAEL BEAVER
47 Lakeview Terrace

ALAN C. PEIRCE
400 Waverleyoaks Rd.

CII

Realizing the "lack of time" at W.H.S., Al has willed his clock to S209. Do you happen to have a couple more for S306 and S208? His interests range from motorcycles to hunting, depending on his mood.

LINDA PERESLUHA
42 1B Garden Circle

CI

Cheering the Hawks, (especially No. 44) was a favorite pastime for vivacious Linda, our lovely homecoming queen. When Linda's not skiing, working at the hospital or engaged in her many activities, she enjoys eating Russian and Chinese food. English with Ma Johnson, and lunch with Ray will all be fond memories of W.H.S. for this senior.

ALBERT PERKINS

We would like to give special thanks to this post-graduate student who has devoted so much time and effort to Waltham High School in the past year. Arthur McGovern has contributed his many talents to almost all of our activities and has given results that are a benefit to all concerned.

As a member of our class, he has participated in the Senior Musical Revue and the annual Talent Show. Not only has he given of his onstage talents, but his off-stage abilities have been major factors in the successes of these productions.

Arthur is a person whose greatest asset is his willingness to help other people at any time—any of his friends and associates can tell you that. He has also been active as a member of the WHS Chorale, the Dramatic Club, the Year Book and the Junior Prom Committee.

Arthur has been a good friend all year to WHS. Thanks Arthur!

DUE TO CONTINUAL SERVICE AND GOOD WILL TO HER STUDENTS AND ASSOCIATES, WE DO HERE CERTIFY THAT

MRS. GERTRUDE JOHNSON

IS OFFICIALLY MADE AN

HONORARY SENIOR

BY THE SENIOR CLASS OF WALTHAM SENIOR
HIGH SCHOOL THIS YEAR OF OUR LORD
ONE THOUSAND NINE HUNDRED AND SIXTY-
EIGHT. THIS HONOR IS BESTOWED BY THE UNDERSIGNED AD INFINITUM.

John J. Field
CLASS PRESIDENT

Gerard H. Belliveau
HOUSEMASTER

What can you do for a teacher whom an entire class admires? The type of teacher that makes Hamlet a part of every struggling student's psyche, gives poetry a universal emotion, and turns dreaded hour essays into matters for developing pride. In her teaching methods, she demands respect for herself, her associates, and her students. By sincerely understanding a senior's new problems with future independence, she is willingly granted this respect.

Mrs. Gertrude "Ma" Johnson should always be a member of each graduating class of Waltham High School. To assure that she and her ideas remain in the hearts of the students, we, the Graduating Class of 1968 officially make her an Honorary Senior.

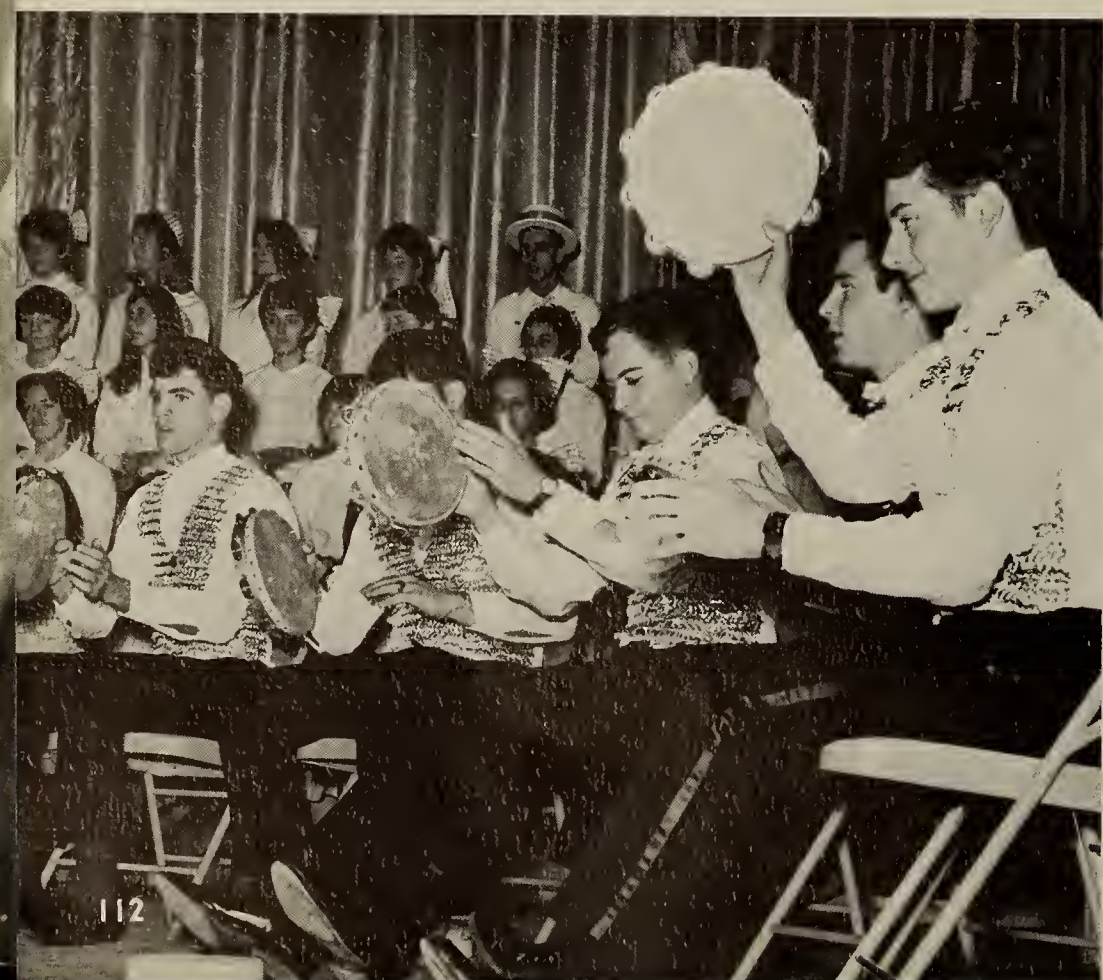

SENIOR ACTIVITIES

“All
This . . .

And
Broadway
Too”

The class of 1968 was the first class to have a musical revue instead of the traditional senior play. On November 18, 20, and 21, 1967, over one hundred and fifty seniors joined in making "All This and Broadway Too" a smashing success.

The tambourine playing end men, along with a large chorus, provided a lively background for the many specialty numbers which characterized the first part of the show . . .

Then it was off to Broadway for such familiar tunes as "Thoroughly Modern Millie," "If I Were a Rich Man" and "Honey Bun".

Mr. Robert Eagle, Chairman of the Drama Department, was the faithful director who, with the students and the other faculty members, worked long and hard to produce THE GREATEST Senior Show in the history of Waltham High School.

1968 CLASS HISTORY

This is a time for looking forward for planning and hoping and preparing. But, just for a moment, let us take time for one long, last backward gaze. It is a summer-warm September day, so long ago, and yet, just yesterday.

Someone young is climbing a strange and steep new stairway, feeling quite lost. Look closely; you know the face. Perhaps it is your own. His name is 1968 and at the end of the stairs 1967 and 1966 wait to welcome their younger brother. He reaches the top and enters through the open doors of Waltham High School.

See him now, moving through the maze in which all paths are one way. He is scheduled to have a class in a room that reads "MENS", and he is sure someone has made a mistake. Why have '66 and '67 left him to find his own way? Just because every step of the way is so familiar to them, they have forgotten how it feels to be unsure of what is expected, of what comes next.

With time, however, comes relaxation, and '68 is beginning to enjoy some of the things this place has to offer. He understands now why his brothers wish that schoolwork didn't have to interfere with activities. A thrilling football season, Homecoming Weekend, joining the Waltham High Band, the computer dance, the hockey tournament, all become part of '68's life. He is elected to the Student Council and helps make all the confusing stairways, tunnels, and bridges open for two-way traffic. He ends his year with an amazing exam schedule "B" and "F", then "C" and "G", lunches 1 and 2 and "A" and finally lunches 4 and 5 and make-up. "Whatever happened to third lunch?"

Up the stairs again, this time with assurance. Those stairs aren't so steep after all! Yet he remembers how it was to be new. He won't forget to lend a helping hand . . . but there are all the guys! "Hey, whaddayasay—meecha at Tony's after school—Oh no, I've got Driver Education—Who've you got for math?—You never can tell from those computer abbreviations—Cafe study next, bring your oxygen!—Hey, look at all the sophs! Tell that one to take his next right to the revolving doors and follow the carpeted hall to the S-building!" There's always something new for him, meeting a foreign exchange student, going to Teen Canteen, participating in Junior Achievement. '68 learns that it's fun to be in a play and sing in the Talent Show chorus. The basketball and hockey tournaments are so exciting! There's not much time for homework though—and who wants to write about temperance? The Junior Prom—why didn't they tell him those shirts were like cardboard? The year is coming to a close, and '68 is on a grassy hill looking down as '67, in tasseled cap and flowing gown mounts the stage, leaving high school behind. "Wish I were in his shoes," '68 is thinking, "but it doesn't look like I'll ever get there."

Time winks, and '68 is a Senior, and having the time of his life. Maybe not paying quite enough attention to studies, but there's so much to do, to be part of, and so little time left! Getting those applications out of the way is a relief, but waiting to hear is murder. '68 is proud to be a senior, proud to be in the Senior Revue, proud of the teams doing so well in sports, proud of belonging. Midyear season, and a tense time for everyone. '68 struggles against senior slump and tries to count the "lasts" as they go by. It's hard to believe there will ever be a Talent Show or a play or a sports tournament without him. But it's not the time to be sentimental—yet. College acceptances!—and rejections. Thank goodness for April vacation—"only about 29 days left!" scream the chalkboards in every classroom. His very own Senior Prom comes at last, and then, too quickly, Graduation. No more corridor passes for '68, no more silent studies with that insufferable teacher—but what about that cheery homeroom teacher, and the guidance counsellor who was always interested? '68 is losing them, too. He will soon be at the mercy of bosses and professors. Just what were those three years worth to him?

For '68 they were three years spent as a part of, but separated from the outside world. He was given time, in those years, to be afraid and unsure, to think and experiment, and feel himself growing up. And the most important thing he has gained is confidence in himself as an individual. He has been taught how to learn, something that will never cease to benefit him. In these turbulent years, he has learned, hopefully, to recognize and appreciate a world which will soon accept him as a permanent and responsible citizen.

CLASS WILL—1968

We, the Class of 1968, with minds saturated in protest and put-down tactics, respond to this opportunity to recognize our outstanding faculty members by sharpening our daggers, poisoning our tongues and making the following bequests:

To Mr. Hassan, our high school principal, and to Mr. Viscarello, our vocational school director: our best wishes for the next year to come as each of you completes his first full year in office.

To Mrs. Hughes, we have lettered a sign reading "No More Dimes," to be worn around her neck.

To Mr. Morning, we present a Samurai sword to save pupils from going to the barber shop.

We bestow upon Mrs. Bowman a classful of speed, students who breathe from the diaphra-a-a-gm.

To Mrs. Flight and Penari: People, instead of those stupid machines.

To Mr. Quinn we leave a can of high gloss head polish and a soft cotton cloth to apply it with.

Our gift to Mrs. Feldman is a six foot stretcher.

For the man who has everything, Mr. Foley, a blackboard monogrammed in 24 carat gold, proclaiming him a permanent member of the "Independently wealthy."

To Mr. Newton we request a prefabricated yearbook, with the ads pledged and collected two years in advance.

The unmatchable, perfect specimen is our offering to Mrs. Doran.

Mr. Callura certainly deserves an "Enemy" award for his lengthy performances in "Rio Bravo."

We applaud for Mrs. Moore her own corporation, so that she can give jobs to that endless list of unemployed senior.

For Mr. Callandro we have contacted a copier for a sign.

We have bottled a flask of New York air to inhale daily, Mrs. Bowman "a times of stress."

To Mrs. Fleming we present all the world news in a nutshell and a gun to crack it open with.

To Mr. Hamilton we leave a field house in one piece and a back what's left of our sports equipment.

We should like such a measure of courage for wearing a pair of slacks in the "3" building.

For Mr. Lynch we have arranged for membership in the "Waltham High Club."

We have purchased a movie camera to film Mrs. Hamilton's new apartment films.

To Mrs. Hamilton we have given a copy of "The Godfather."

To Mr. Callura we have given a copy of "The Godfather" and a copy of "The Swedish box, some more to Mr. Callura, some more to Mr. Callura, some more to Mr. Callura.

For Mrs. Callura we have given a copy of "The Godfather" and a copy of "The Swedish box, some more

Cat's Eye Gang

A small boy sits and peruses
His pocket-loving marble that
Like a birthmark distinguishes him
From all other marble owners.

Raising the marble to the light,
He gazes into the tiny crystal ball.
But the blue swirl of cloud
Mars the transparency.

And the young boy thinks about
Tomorrow, when he can go out
And, marble-in-hand,
Present himself to his cat's eye gang.

He might use his marble as a sword
To vie the other neighborhood knights.
Or, if he is feeling benevolent, he will teach
The younger boys the art of shooting marbles.

Then again, he might not go out at all,
But lock himself in his room
Hoarding the marbles all for himself
And not caring for the cat's eye gang.

A small boy sits and peruses
His pocket-loving marble that
Like a birthmark distinguishes him
From all other marble owners.

We stopped on our way through the forest
to carve our name on a tree
Which stood in a clearing not far from the place
Where we began the journey.
And our names were embarrassingly white
Amid the thousands carved in the past—
In time they would fade to gray with the rest
And others would find a place
To carve their names on this tree.
There will always be room on this tree.
There will always be space for the new names.

We stopped on our way through the forest
To carve our names on a tree.
But now we continue the journey
In search of the Tree
Signed with no name
On which we will carve our dreams,
Dreams that will shape tomorrow.

And there will always be time,
There will always be room,
There will always be space for the new dreams.

1968 Class Fantasy

presented on stage
June 3, 1968

Ray, Ray, Are you still awake? Climb into that bed immediately—and put out that light!

Poor Ray, an hour in bed and still no sleep? Time for counting sheep, young man. But watch out, who knows where the sheep might lead you on the other side of the fence. Slowly now . . . one, two, three, four . . .

Say, what's that strange horn in the distance? It must be Little Boy Blue Alan Muir calling the sheep to the fold. Why, yes!—there's Little Mary Lesneski and her lamb Rich Centola running along behind them. They must be heading for Old MacDonald Al Perkins' farm. Let's go along and find the fun. And there's Floppsy Elaine Ballo, Moppsy Pat Rando, and Cottontail, Kathy Burns. Maybe they'll show us the way.

Suddenly a scream—Miss Muffet, Judy Joliat, comes running from her tuffet with a big spider, Dave Mills, at her feet. To our left, Peter Pumpkin Eater Bob Nason is pounding at the door of his pumpkin, as his wife, Maureen LeLievre, smiles coyly from the window. Scattered about the grounds are the Old Woman in the Shoe, Eileen Herlihey, and her nine children; Mike Jackson, Sandra Lovequist, Richard MacKenzie, Paul MacDonald, Judy Murphy, Michael Gahan, Richard Hache, Darlene Harvey, and Rhonda Howard. Eileen is sure lucky to have a helper like poor Mother Hubbard, Suzanne LaCasse, to watch the brood.

What's this? Someone crying? Oh, it's poor little Ellen Searle; Georgy Porgy, Steven Dugas, is chasing her all over the farm. And here come Jack and Jill, Dennis Roach and Judy Bonney, running hurriedly down the hill, with the three blind mice, Daniel Walsh, Len Walba, and Gerald Wessell, close at their feet. It looks like they're going to collide! Quick, let's leave before the trouble starts!

Just next door we find ourselves in Cartoontown, run by Li'l Abner, Ronald Poirier, and Daisey Mae, Marie Clancy. Out in the field, Charlie Brown, Harold Porter, and Snoopy, Michael Sweder, are conducting one of their famous baseball games. Umpire Yogi Bear, Robert Dunkerly, shouts "You're out!" to his friend, Boo Boo, Bill Trudear. What a friend! On the bases we find Little Orphan Annie, Clare Cohn, Dennis the Menace, Doug Stanley, and Felix the Cat, Michele Engrassia. With a team like this, how can they lose? Yet, on the other team we have Rocky, Joe Generoso, and his Friends, Mr. Peabody, James Callahan, and Natasha, Vivian Campobasso—beware of their evil plans, Charlie Brown!

Whiz . . . What was that? Bugs Bunny, James Robinson, casually explains that it was just Road Runner, Chico Demeo, whizzing by on his 47 millionth lap. In the middle of all the excitement come Mickey Mouse, Mike C. bone, and Minnie Mouse; Leslie Forgione, and their friends, Goofy, Bob DeLuca, and Donald Duck, Richard Dan. Suddenly we hear tapping and scratching. To our right, Woody Woodpecker, John Whittemore, and the Chipmunks, Chip, Debbie Brannelly and Dale, Jim Festog, are trying to break into the jail to free their friends Muti and Jeff, Paul Zeigler and Lester Scafidi. Oops, here come the law enforcement officers; Deputy Quick Draw McGraw, Ed Roldan, Babbalouie, Janet Rao and Detective Dick Tracey, Walter Wellman. Looks like there'll be a few more in the Cartoontown jail tonight. I think we've been here long enough—let's move on to T. V. Land.

At the gates of T. V. Land we are greeted by a roaring "Ho, Ho, Ho!" from the Jolly Green Giant, David Dinsmore. As we watch Superman, Thomas Dubie, flying overhead, our attention is caught by a strange cry from the forest. From beyond come Tarzan, James Bishop, and Jane, Kathy Curtis, swinging from the vines. Down, down, down, they swoop until they are face to face with us on the ground.

With a screech and a rumble, the Batmobile suddenly rounds the curve. Batman, Russell Viles, is driving, with Batgirl, Joanne Severino, and Boy Wonder, Ray Zammuto, at his side. They have just answered a call from Auntie Em, Annette Ross in Wisconsin, that her niece, Dorothy, Susan Ukraine, had disappeared. She was last seen with three rather strange characters, the Scarecrow, Charlie Bonica, the Cowardly Lion, James Sullivan, and The Tinman, Dan Stremeckus, being chased by the Wicked Witch of the West, Olympia Anthony. They are believed to be headed for the castle of the Wizard of Oz, Ed Bachelder. With a flash the dynamic set takes off to find poor Dorothy. Oh, the excitement of the forest!

Next we enter the Enchanted forest where we find Snow White, Sheila Murray, who has fallen at the hands of the wicked queen, Rosalie Licato. Around her bedside we find her seven loving dwarfs: Doc, Joe Blanchard, Happy, Janet Moody, Grumpy Anne Hansen, Sneezy David Main, Sleepy David Nawrocki, Bashful Nancy Kruger, and Dopey, Betsy Bracket. Just outside the door the tortoise, Diane Duprez, and the hare, Annette Dallaire, have just finished their race. As the tortoise, dons his victory crown, the poor hare sits dejected to the side. But alas!—there'll be another race.

As we wave to Rapunzel, Sheryl Larkin, in her distant tower, Goldilocks, Diane Rooney, comes dashing along the path. In hot pursuit Papa Bear, John Mazzarini, and Mama Bear, Linda Juppe, come barreling around the bend with Baby Bear, Barry Kennedy, bob, bob, bobbing along behind. At our left, beauty, Jane Depass, and the beast, Mike Quinn, are watching the wedding of Cinderella, Linda Pereshluha, to the Prince, Robert Schaufus. Oh, the envy in the eyes of the wicked stepsisters, Karen Piazza, and Ruth Pilicy, and the stepmother, Mary Passerello.

Suddenly a scream!—along the path comes Little Red Riding Hood, Joanne St Germain, chased by the wolf, Joseph Centola, and headed for Grandma, Pat Redding's house. Let's hope the hunter, William Ormerod, arrives in time to save the day! As we leave the forest we come across Prince Charming, Bill Maher, just awaking Sleepy Beauty Doreen LeBlanc, from her century long spell. Well, good-bye to the forest; it's time to move on.

As we enter Fantasy Land, we are confronted by darkness as we face a great northeast blackout. However, to our rescue comes Jack be Nimble, John Higgins, with his candle. Little Jack Horner, Bill Adams, sitting timidly in his corner, watching Peter Pan, Paul DeSaulnier, through the window. Peter and Wendy, Virginia Behrikas, and Tinkerbell, Marguerite Whalen, are in terrible trouble, as Captain Hook, Lawrence Njus, and his motley crew: David Fraser, Ann Dowcette, and David DeMarco chase them through the forest. Run faster, Peter, but watch out! Don't step on poor little Tom Thumb, Richie Lewis!

Mosying along the street in darkness are Jack Pratt, Walter Greenblott, and his wife, Pam Moldoff, who is clinging to his sleeve. Yikes! Down, down, down we fall until we land in what seems to be a royal courtyard. Hey! There's Alice in Wonderland, Ruth Livermore, with the Mad Hatter, Bob Naughton, and White Rabbit, David Green. Watch out, everyone, here comes the Queen of Hearts, Kathy LaRosa, shouting, "Off with their heads! Off with their heads!" Quick,—out this hole, she'll never find us!

"Ray, Ray,—Time to get up."

"No—no, you can't cut off my head!"

Mama, Lynne Arico, and Papa, Jack Field, just look at each other in dismay.

"Oh . . . oh, it's you, Mom. Mom. Dad, you'll never guess what I saw—I saw a . . .

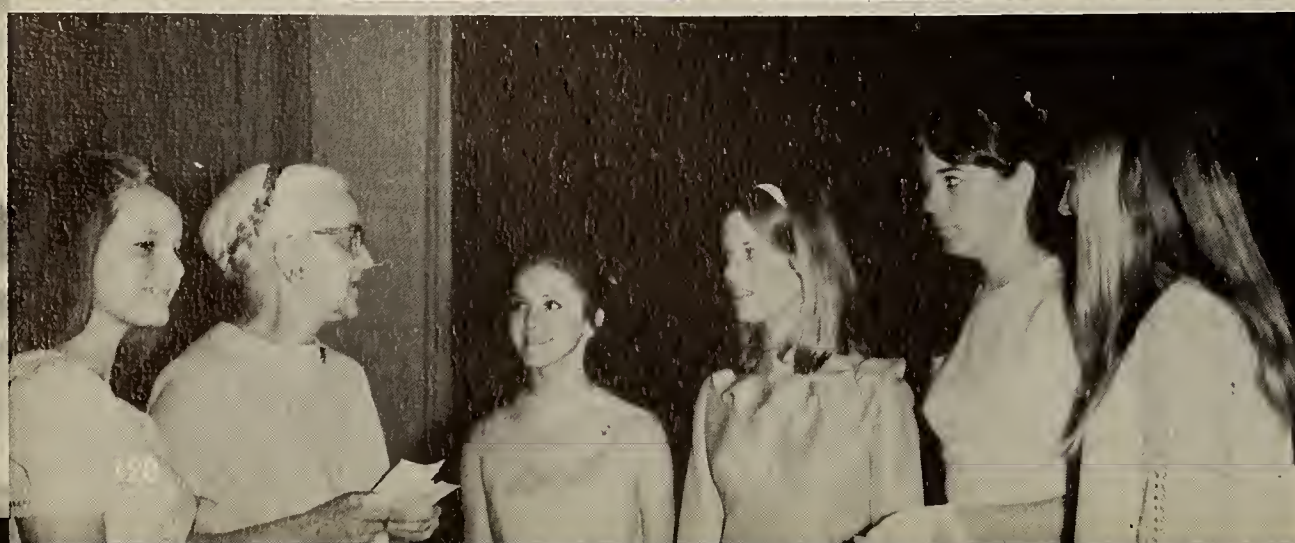

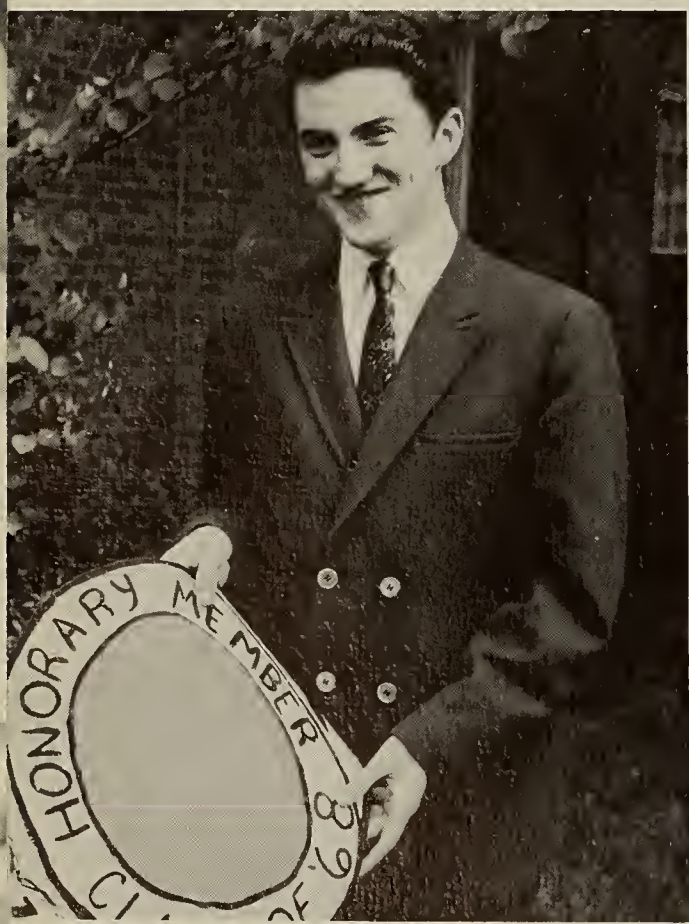

. . . a big . . . a huge . . . Oh, never mind, you wouldn't believe me anyway.

Drama Club

Before this year, The Drama Club did little else than put on an annual play and see occasional musical shows. This year the club has increased greatly in size (90 members) and activity. The last production was Tartuffe, produced in full 17th century costume, and directed by the advisor, Robert Eagle.

For the first time, Waltham participated in the Regional Drama Festival, hosting the all-day event and entering the all male cast of In the Zone, by O'Neill. Three judges voted Waltham the Regional winner with Arlington High. Two boys of the cast were named to the All-Star Regional Cast.

A trip to the Shubert Theater to see Hello Dolly was culminated by a private interview with the star of the musical, Ginger Rodgers, after the show.

Seventy club members spent a three day weekend in New York City. Plans included Radio City Music Hall, Broadway shows, and a sightseeing cruise.

L. to R.: Bill Maher, vice-president; Beverly Beaudoin, secretary; Steve Rourke, president; Colleen Stankard, treasurer.

TARTUFFE

The major production for the year was Molière's hilarious comedy about religious hypocrisy Tartuffe. Devoted thespians and audience alike applauded the Drama Club's efforts to master this play of classic proportions. The production received a warm response at Kennedy Junior High on March 8th. Seniors David Barnes, Jon Chilingirian, Joanne Peros, Nancy Mulvaney, and Anthony Giardina played important roles.

The purpose of the French Club is to provide an enjoyable extra-curricular activity for those students who take French as a foreign language or are interested in it. Last year's activity included a French dinner, prepared entirely by the members, the attendance of French movies, a joint Christmas party with the other language clubs, and a beach party. This year's activities again included the annual Christmas party and dinner at a French restaurant along with guest speaking at various meetings. A French fair is also planned for the late spring, and hopes are that the fair will become an annual event.

Math Team

The Debating Club added four new members during a series of discussions on Viet Nam, early in the year. Then, well-armed with this new talent, the club prepared for the year's topic: Resolve—That the Congress should establish uniform regulations to control criminal investigation procedures. With the help of the friendly librarians, and advisors, Mr. Sullivan and Mr. Blossom, the debaters talked their way to a tie for third place in the North Suburban Debating League. In the semi-finals, Waltham won one debate and lost another, but still received a trophy for fourth place.

Foreign Relations-United Nations

During this year, the F.O.R.U.N. Club, (which stands for Foreign Relations—United Nations), has attended model United Nations General Assemblies at Harvard and Brandeis University, and a model Security Council at Harvard. The club has represented such nations as Burma, Japan, United Kingdom, Guyana, New Zealand, and Nepal. At these assemblies there have been discussions on such topics as Viet Nam, the admission of Red China to the United Nations, and Korea. At the Harvard General Assembly, the delegation from Waltham, representing Burma received Honorable Mention for the best delegation, and David Barnes received Honorable Mention for the best delegate.

Chorus

After a few years absence, the Waltham High School Choral has returned to the local activity scene. Participating in all city and exchange concerts, involved the entire group, while small ensembles formed for more specialized music participation. Next time you're looking for a student conductor, or even a group to go Christmas carolling (with a guaranteed Santa Claus), come to the next sing-out.

Future Nurses of America

OFFICERS: Lois Isaacson;
Christine Ryan; Jane De-
Pass; Linda Pereshluha.

The purpose of the Future Nurses Club is to bring together students who are interested in the profession of nursing. Members share opinions, explore opportunities, and expand their interests by working together. Several graduate nurses returned to Waltham High to speak about the assets and liabilities of hospital work. These discussions are extremely valuable to the members of the club. Some of the activities that concerned the future nurses this year were the planning of the Christmas Benefit which provided unfortunate children with small gifts, and volunteering their services at the Red Cross Bloodmobile. Many of the members assist at the Waltham Hospital as Candy Strippers or Nurses' Aides. Most of the Senior members will attend Nursing schools next year and perhaps will return as administrators to local hospitals.

Future Teachers of America

The future teachers of America has sixty-five members and is under the sponsorship of Mrs. Czarnowski of the English Department. It is a chapter member of the Massachusetts Division of the Future Teachers of America.

The club is designed to interest members in different aspects of teaching. Past meetings have included forums on the teaching of perceptually handicapped children, the use of audio-visual material in teaching, and the new non-graded elementary school system.

Volunteers have worked in the language lab assisting in the English as a foreign language program. They have also worked at the Prospect Street Fire Station with deaf children. Volunteers are now signing up for the Summer Project Main-spring.

The Student Council is one of the largest organizations of the school. It consists of five Student Council officers, four class officers and two senators from each class, and all homeroom representatives. This year the Student Council has been engaged in many activities: the selling of Student Activity Tickets, several dances—including the highly successful Computer Dance, re-writing the Student Body Constitution, preparing an Activity Booklet for next year's sophomore class, and sponsoring a three location Scholarship Carwash for the benefit of the William Gallagher Scholarship. Also the Student Council headed a Drug Forum which consisted of a question and answer discussion over the PA system with several distinguished members of the Waltham community.

Other members of the Student Council are:

"Come Fly With Us"

W Club

OFFICERS:
President: Chris Demeo
Vice President: John Field
Treasurer: William Adams

The W Club was formed a year ago last December with several objectives in mind: to promote a better understanding and create an "esprit-de corps" among all sports, encourage and increase Waltham High School spirit and support for all athletic contests, promote a better student-athletic image, strive to create a Waltham High Citizen, and perpetuate the W Club. The club also feels there is a need to distinguish its members from non-member letter winners. Therefore, all seniors are awarded a maroon blazer with a hawk embroidered on the pocket. They are allowed to keep this jacket upon graduation in good standing with a C average.

Also there was a need to recognize any record-breaking performance by any member. The record breaker is awarded a plaque signifying his outstanding performance.

"This Week at Waltham High" is in its 48th year of reporting high school news events to Waltham readers. Space for the column is donated by the Waltham News Tribune giving us 15,000 potential readers each week. The purpose of the column is not to alter or shape school policy, but to cover club and school events and other notable occurrences at the Senior High School and Vocational High School. A full time staff open to all WHS students is maintained although faculty and nonmembers are welcome to submit material for print. Mr. Hood and Mrs. Shirley are the column's faculty advisors.

CLASS OF 1969

Doris Riccicto, senator; Linda Johnson, senator; Russell Hammond, president; Linda Barry, vice president; Janet Shedd, secretary.

CLASS OF 1969

The class of 1969 in addition to all its other attributes, has more than its share of beauty. We have presented the classes of '67 and '68 with two of our loveliest girls, both of whom were given the honor of being among the Homecoming Queen's Court. In 1966 Donna Di Gregorio was an attendant in the queen's court, and Helen Ferro received this honor in 1968. We must not forget petite Judy Stepanian, who highlighted our junior prom when she was crowned the Junior Prom Queen of 1968.

The prom entitled, "Some Enchanted Evening," was indeed enchanting, thanks to a group of our junior class members who, under the chairmanship of Sheila Callahan and Dave Nurse, put in many hours in anticipation and preparation. Indeed it was a smashing success and has been recognized as one of the grandest ever presented at Waltham High School.

But beauty queens and proms aren't our only achievement. The junior class is looking forward to a highly successful sports year led by football co-captains Robert Mac Clary and Dave Leger, Basketball co-captains Peter Jones and Chuck Leo, Hockey co-captains Ed Roubian and Paul Leger. We are expecting to continue Waltham High School's proud reputation in sports.

We extend our sincere thanks and appreciation to the senior class, who has helped us through the past two years. Thus, in replacing the senior class we offer our best wishes to all upon graduation.

February 16, 1968 was the social event of the year for the Class of "69". This was the night that saw the Cafeteria transformed into a picturesque South Sea Island wonderland. Co-Chairmen of this event were Sheila Callahan and David Nurse.

Vincent Vaccarello and his orchestra added that special touch to the evening festivities as they played a variety of dedications in keeping with the theme of the Prom which was entitled, "Some Enchanted Evening."

The climax of the evening was the crowning of the Junior Prom Queen, Miss Judy Stepanian by our Headmaster, Mr. E. P. George Husson, Jr. Also in attendance were the four class officers: Jeanne Umbrello, Janet Shedd, Russell Hammond, and Linda Barry.

The Prom ended at 11:30 as each couple continued on their way for further celebration.

Diaphragm Exercises

H.R. Attic

Clytemnestra spends her spare time either on the bridge with Hieronymous Bosch, Ophelia Giovanni, Maria Contessa, Mehetabelle Jones and Louie, or at Tony's Aqua
Vida Lounge chatting with Philip Zonck, Larry Lump, Ernie Boch and Penelope Prud. Her favorite food is strangled perriwinkles under glass with parmesan cheese and peanut butter. She loves candy-coated pickles. In the future, this energetic senior plans to attend Wabash U. to major in philanthropic techniques using the touch-tone method.
She excels in show and tell.

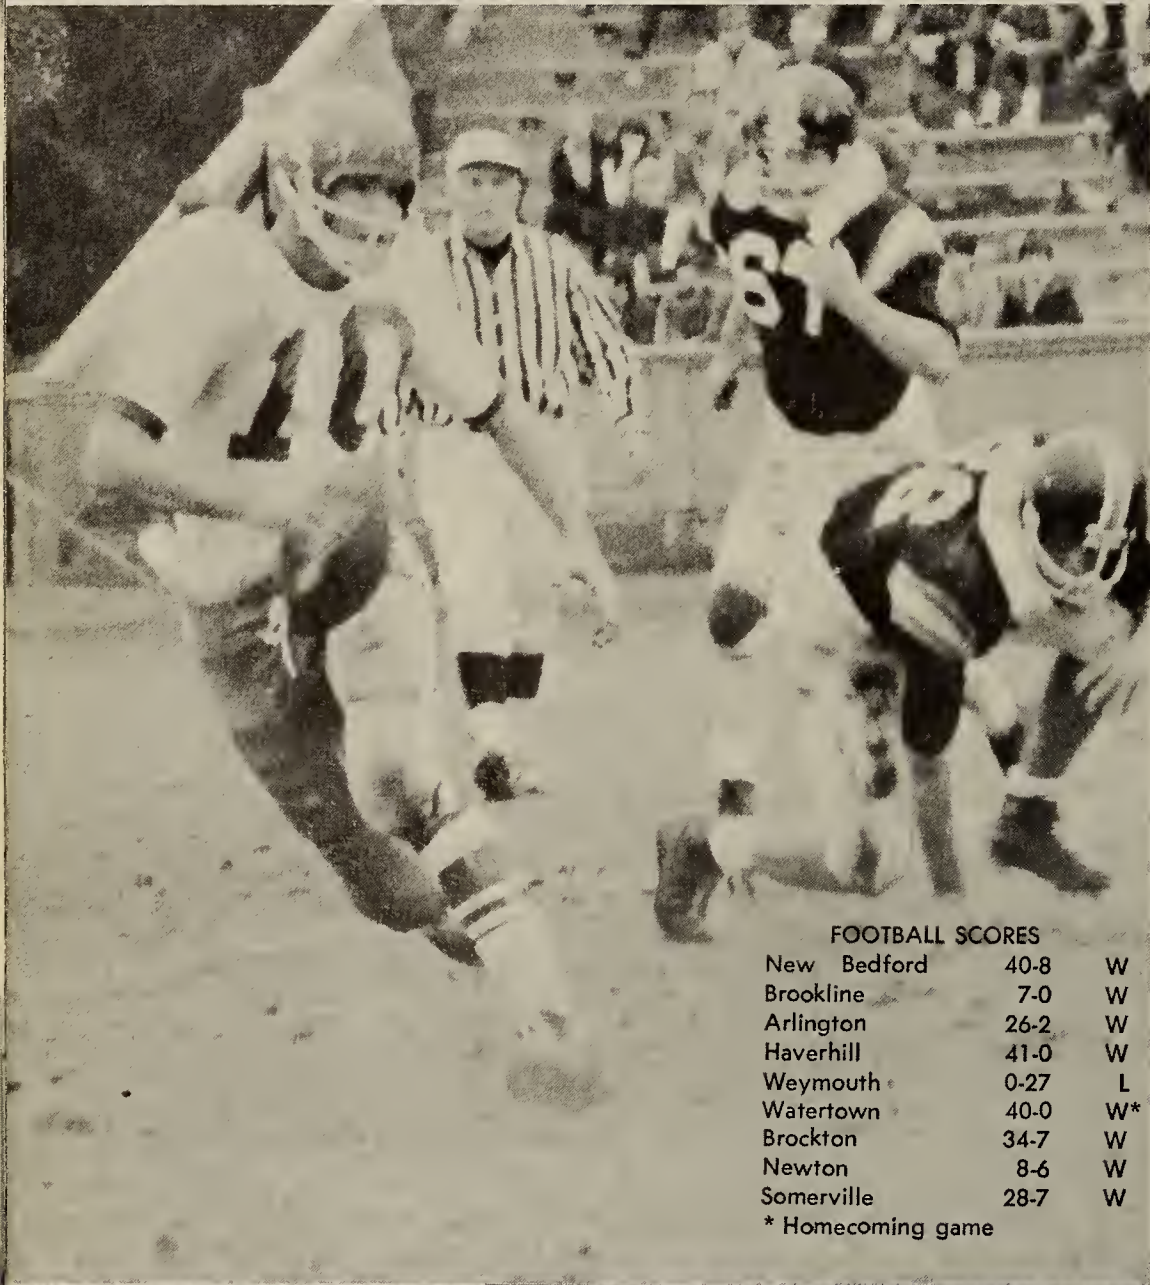

GOOD LUCK CLYT !!!!!!!!!!!

Activities: ohhhhhh definitely.

Everyone wants to be remembered—memories seem to be the only certain things in life, at times. That is why we have created this yearbook; remembrance.

EDITOR'S NOTES

It is on this page of the Mirror that the editors are allowed to express their individual thoughts concerning the book itself and the general environment in which they worked and dealt. In keeping with the spirit of change accented by today's youth, we have tried to bring a new approach into the yearbook by making it an historical picture book. This feature would not have been possible without the aid of Mr. Sgouros, our faculty advisor, who spent many hours photographing and printing the majority of the candids that appear here. It is to him first the appreciation must go. Secondly, we would like to acknowledge the cooperation extended by Mr. Husson who agreed to our proposal for larger and better quality pages. We have offered Mr. Levey, next year's senior housemaster, a number of constructive criticisms concerning the content and appearance of the book which he has acted upon to assure more progress in next year's book.

Finally, we have watched the world outside of our own progress for almost eighteen years. Appalled, baffled, and shocked at the reactions of mankind to man, we watch our country weakening, resisting change, divided in racism, and morality. We have seen the adult world struggle for change and the youth world fight openly for change. Now we are trying to understand the frustrating time element and the complex solutions of social change, where one person is not enough to cause action.

We, the editors, sincerely hope you enjoy this year's book. We have put in many hours and much thought in order to provide you with a memorable volume.

The Editors

Before you accept that first job . . .

Look over your employer
as carefully
as he does
you

What's the Company like anyway? Would I be proud to work there? Reputation for square dealing with employees? Pleasant surroundings?

Will I be working with others my own age? Are they friendly? Do they socialize after hours?

Will the boss be reasonable? Appreciate good, hard work, but won't explode if I make a mistake?

Will I make a decent week's pay? Have a chance for raises, advancement, more responsibility? How about fringe benefits?

Is the work challenging? I had what it takes to get through high school. Will they give me a chance to use my brains?

Note: Many young men and women in this area can answer "Yes" to these questions. They work for New England Telephone.

Why not talk with our employment interviewer soon . . . before you graduate? Ask your Guidance Counselor to tell you when and where to apply.

History's being made in your own backyard.

And you can be a part of it.

Some of the most advanced systems and technologies in the world are being developed right now at the Raytheon research/development laboratories and facilities in Eastern Massachusetts. Guidance systems for the Apollo Moon shots, air traffic control for the FAA, worldwide communications via satellites, highly-specialized data handling, sophisticated radar and sonar systems and many other programs for natural resource development, education, defense and products for the home.

Whatever field you're interested in, now or after college, Raytheon has a good job for you to come home to. The kinds of careers available are virtually unlimited and so are the opportunities when you put your talents to work on the exciting programs at Raytheon.
